ORPET ON STAND TELLS STORY OF MARIAN LAMBERT

Youthful Defendant Repeats
History of Couple's Relations.

AUDITORS HANG HEADS
AS REVELATIONS COME

Prosecution Relentless in Questioning on Cross-Examination.

WAUKESHA, Ill., June 27.—Will Orpet told the story on the witness stand today of his relations with Marian Lambert, for whose murder he is on trial. His direct examination was finished early in the day and then his attorneys turned the youthful defendant over to the prosecution for cross-examination. The state's attorneys spared no details, and for a half hour questions and answers were of a nature that women hung their heads and men were plainly uncomfortable.

Replies With Head Averted.

The attorney's insistence went on relentlessly. The young witness, faced by his father and mother, turned his head as he replied. There was a sigh of relief as "Exhibit one," a letter, was called to the witness' attention, indicating a change in the line of questioning.

Orpet told of giving Marian a bottle of molasses and water "to relieve her mind." This was February 9, the day of her death.

"Why did you tell the prosecutor you were 'in Madison February 9'?" "Well, the way things were I thought it would look bad," replied the witness.

Had Tacit Understanding.

"What were your relations with Celeste Youker?" asked Attorney Potter. The court room became very quiet as every ear was strained to hear Orpet's reply.

"There was a tacit understanding between us. I had known her six years," he said.

"Did she return your affections?"

"Not always."

"Did you tell anyone you saw Marian take poison?"

"No, I did not."

"Did you tell reporters that Marian and other girls of humble parentage felt flattered at the attentions of college men?"

"I certainly did not."

Tells of Automobile Ride.

Orpet turned over to the state for cross-examination was asked about an automobile ride which Marian and Orpet took last September. It was on this trip that the relations of the young pair passed the bounds of morality, witness admitted.

"Were you in love with her?"

Orpet hesitated for a minute, then replied:

"Judging from my letters later I think not."

"Oh, you were desperately in love with her, were you not?"

"Not then, that came later, judging from my letters."

Wrote of His Love.

"Early in your correspondence after returning to the university you did tell her that you loved her, didn't you?"

"Yes sir."

The attorney called attention to a letter which the defendant wrote to the girl last September in which Orpet told the girl that everything she did interested him. In another he spoke of "this kind of weather makes me think of fusing."

"What do you mean by 'fusing'?"

"It means paying attention to a girl," explained Orpet.

County Attorney Embrey stated what the state expects to prove. He was followed by Moman Pruett, one of the attorneys for Jess Knight, in a statement of what the defense will be.

L. C. Venson, chief engineer at the Sulphur and Sons' packing plant was the first state witness to be called.

Embrey's Statement.

Embrey said the state expects to prove that on the night of November 27, Jess and his brother, John, went to the S. and S. fire department, of which Long was chief, that the Knights and members of the department played cards that Long was then living on a cot but went into a lavatory John Knight followed, and in a moment John Knight held Long by the collar and was striking him with a knife, the prosecutor continued, and Long, weakened by loss of blood, seized a fire nozzle and held it between him and John Knight. Jess Knight caught Long by the arm and jerked him back, then pulled out a revolver and shot Long, whereupon the Knight brothers fled, Embrey continued.

Knights' Defense.

Moman Pruett intimated that John Knight will be put on the witness stand to tell what happened in the toilet room that led to the fight with Long.

Pruett said witnesses will testify that Long held the fire nozzle in his arms in a striking condition and was about to strike John Knight when Jess opened fire; that Jess acted in defense of his brother.

Largest Assemblage of Character Ever Gathered in City Hears Reports.

CITY WILL BE KIND
HER CITIZENS MAKE IT

ARGUMENT NO. 15.—It is men and not conditions that make cities.

The Dutch wrested their Fatherland from the sea.

The Venetians transformed a marsh into a metropolis.

CO-OPERATION DID IT.

The same spirit will make Oklahoma City one of the business centers and the most progressive city in the southwest.

It requires organized effort to enable citizens to put their energies where it counts. The Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce is the machinery and the medium through which plans can be worked out. Every citizen should co-operate with this organization and, by becoming a member, help in the city's progress.

Three hundred and sixty-nine members were added to the Chamber of Commerce today. These, together with the original 400 and the 280 secured yesterday, bring the total membership to 1055.

E. Z. Wallower held today's membership record with thirty applications. He also holds the record for the two days of the campaign with fifty-two. H. F. Bradburn with twenty-nine new members came second today, and H. G. Snyder third, with twenty-six.

Workers Speak.

Probably the largest crowd ever assembled in Oklahoma City on a similar occasion, at noon today heard team workers in the acquisition of new members. The Rotary club, Chamber of Commerce, real estate board, retailers association and other civic organizations were included in the meeting.

The Rotary club, previous to the reports, voted to hold its next meeting on Monday, July 3, to avoid meeting on the Fourth of July.

Campaigners Report.

Members secured by each team and captain are as follows:
Eugene Whittington, 1; E. G. Girvin, 13; E. G. Bedford, 1; D. R. Cummings, 13.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, June 27.—General Funston and his staff searched every report from all border stations today for some sign of hostilities on the part of Carranza's army that is pouring into northern Mexico, but the real work at department headquarters was the supervision of the multitudinous details incident to preparing the American force for instant invasion.

The information brought to border commanders from the interior of Mexico continued to show the steady strengthening of the Mexican army in the north.

ATTACK MUST WAIT UNTIL MORE TROOPS ARE READY

Mexican Officials Believe Captured Troopers Will Be Surrendered.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—There were clear indications today that the American cavalrymen captured by Mexican troops at Carrizal are not released within forty-eight hours, action will be taken by the United States.

The impression prevailed in official circles that President Wilson will not wait beyond Thursday, at the latest, and possibly not beyond Wednesday afternoon, for a definite reply from the Carranza government to the note demanding the immediate release of the prisoners and a declaration of intentions.

Must Have More Troops.

While the diplomatic aspects of the crisis awaited Carranza's action, the war department drove forward its efforts to hasten mobilization of the national guard on the border. It is certain that no aggressive military operations can be undertaken until a substantial number of state troops is available to back up General Funston's regulars.

President Wilson's first step should be to lay the whole situation before congress in joint session.
